MURDER IN FIRST DEGREE CHARGED

Affidavit is Filed Late Today Against
George W. Clingman for Shooting George Perry.

HIS BOND IS FIXED AT $1,000

It is Immediately Given and Cling-man is Released Until Final
Action is Taken.

THIS CHARGE IS IMPERATIVE

Must be First Degree and if Indictment Should be Returned Degree
Would be Determined.

An affidavit charging first degree murder was filed this afternoon in circuit court against George W. Clingman, who has been held in jail since Sunday morning following the death of George Perry, whom he shot with a rifle after mistaking a party of fishermen for robbers.

Clingman's attorneys had made arrangements for giving bond and it was expected he would be released immediately. Judge Sparks was called to the court house and fixed the amount of the bond at $1,000. Lon Mull promptly provided bond and Clingman was released immediately.

The affidavit was signed by Clayton Perry, a brother of the dead man, and a member of the fishing party that visited the Mull farm, northeast of Manila last Saturday night. It is alleged that Clingman "feloniously and purposely and with premeditated malice, did kill and murder George Perry." The affidavit then follows the usual form.

The affidavit charged first degree murder because under this all other forms of murder are included and if the case should be tried the jury has the right to determine what degree, if any, of murder was committed. By making it first degree murder it is possible to try him under any of the degrees.

The filing of the affidavit does not prevent the grand jury from taking up the case and it is expected that the grand jury called for the September term of court will investigate the case.

Dr. Lowell M. Green, county coroner, expected to continue his investigations either this afternoon or tomorrow morning and if possible file his verdict some time Wednesday. The coroner is anxious to get the testimony of Robert Perry, the father of George Perry.

The father was almost prostrated over the tragedy and Sunday and Monday was in no condition to testify before the coroner. In fact, the coroner and his clerk could get nothing from him regarding the case. Clingman decided today that he wanted out of jail and through his attorneys urged the state to file some kind of a charge so he could get out on bond. His father, Rollie Clingman, was in the city most of the day and made arrangements for bondsmen, expecting the state to file a charge.

Congratulations To—

Charles Hugo, a well known resident of this city, who is 67 years old today. He does not look this old, and in fact had forgotten it was his birthday. Mr. Hugo bought an automobile and declares that he already knows more about a machine than Sam Young.

Baltimore, August 1.—Owen Coleman, the pilot who brought the sub-freighter Deutschland safely into port will take her out again. Plans of the promoters call for him to pilot her down the bay before tonight. This was learned authoritatively early today.

Shortly after the information concerning the pilot became known, a tug and a smaller launch started out toward mid channel carrying a drag, apparently to pick up any mines or obstructions.

TO SOLICIT FOR VISITING NURSE

Woman's Council Appoints Committee Monday Evening to Get
Subscriptions for Fund.

TO MEET WITH CITY COUNCIL

Another Committee Will Seek Appropriation to Help Defray
Expenses of Public Nurse

An active campaign will be started in about two weeks to solicit subscriptions for the visiting nurse fund. Such was the decision of the Woman's Council when they met at the home of Mrs. A. G. Reeves last evening. A number of important matters were decided upon, the most important ones being relative to the support of the visiting nurse. This campaign will be under the direction of the finance committee which was appointed last evening. The members of this committee are Mrs. A. G. Reeves, Mrs. Raymond Hargrove, Mrs. Lewis Sexton, Miss Anna Gilson, Miss Alma Green, Mrs. Bert Trabue and Miss Anna Bohannon. It is their hope to raise a large part of the necessary amount for the support of the visiting nurse by subscriptions from public spirited citizens.

A committee was also appointed to meet with the city council at one of their meetings during this month and ask for an appropriation from the city toward this fund. This committee is composed of Dr. Will Coleman, Mrs. Emily Coleman and Miss Anna Bohannon.

It was decided to ask Miss Lora-belle Roser to accept the position as visiting nurse for next year. Miss Roser proved her efficiency last year and it is the universal hope that she can return. The offer of $80 a month is to be made to her. In case she cannot return, it was decided to offer not more than $75 a month to her successor.

Not all the attention of the Council, however, is to be devoted to the visiting nurse. Civic welfare is to be a matter of interest. A sanitation committee was appointed, which is to investigate civic conditions and cleanliness in the city and make a monthly report to the council. Several new by-laws were added to the constitution Monday evening.

The next meeting of the Council will be held September 4th. in the directors room of the Rushville National Bank. Twelve delegates attended the meeting last evening.

IS "REPEATER" AT COLUMBUS

James Whitcomb Brougher, Coming to Chautauqua Here, Speaks at
Assembly There Tonight

SECOND YEAR AT COLUMBUS

Zedeler Symphonic Sextette, Which
Will Appear in Rushville,
Praised in Bartholomew

Two of the leading attractions at the Columbus chautauqua, which opened Sunday, will be at the Rush county chautauqua, which opens next Sunday and continues up to and including the following Sunday. James Whitcomb Brougher, who will lecture next Wednesday evening, appears at Columbus tonight and the Zedeler Sextette, which is here the last two days, closed an engagement of two days at Columbus last night.

It reflects credit to the Rush county chautauqua when it is considered that the Columbus chautauqua is charging an extra admission because Brougher is on the program tonight, but he is brought to the Rush county chautauqua and no more admission is charged than for any other programs, except Sunday, on which more money is expended and greater effort made to get an exceptional program. Concerning the Zedelers, the Columbus Republican says:

The Zedeler Symphonic Sextette made its initial appearance Sunday afternoon and charmed the big audience. The Zedelers are master musicians, presenting extremely high class programs. However, they have the knack of "putting it over," whereby every person in the audience knows and understands the most serious classical composition before it is begun. Mr. Zedeler gives a brief explanation of each number. This organization was on the program this afternoon and will close its engagement with a popular concert tonight.

And the Republican is even more lavish in discussing the approaching appearance of Dr. Brougher tonight:

Perhaps the biggest crowd of chautauqua week is expected in Donner Park tomorrow. Tuesday the attractions will be the White Hussars and the Rev. James Whitcomb Brougher. This will be the only week day on which an increased admission is charged.

At night the Hussars will prelude, after which the Rev. James Whitcomb Brougher will lecture. He was here last year and is one of the few "repeaters." Dr. Brougher is a native of Jennings county and a delegation of his old friends and neighbors are coming to greet him here. While in Columbus he will be the guest of Dr. and Mrs. George T. McCoy. He spends Monday night in Indianapolis, and will arrive here Tuesday afternoon.

STORM ENDS HOT WEATHER

Several Electrical Displays and .8 of
Inch Rainfall Causes Drop in Temperature.

VERY LITTLE DAMAGE DONE

Lightning Plays Many Tricks at the
Home of Fred Martin, Near Falmouth.

Probably the most severe electrical storm of the summer passed over this city and county last evening shortly after five o'clock. No great damage resulted, which is considered remarkable in view of the amount of lightning.

The storm was accompanied by considerable wind and passed from the northwest to southeast. Most of the county received a heavy rain, with the exception of the western edge. There was hardly any rain at Arlington and practically none at Homer. The rainfall amounted to eight-tenths of an inch, according to the report from the government bureau at Mauney.

In Rushville the lightning burned out a fuse at the water and light plant and as a result most of the city was in darkness as far as street lights were concerned. The damage did not affect the commercial circuits and hindered only the smaller street lights.

The home of Fred Martin, near Falmouth, was struck by lightning, but was not fired. The lightning played several freaks, at the Martin home, tearing a screen door from its hinges and burning out the telephone. The lightning struck the roof and then jumped to the screen door. The door was badly battered and torn, showing that the bolt struck with great force.

The eastern part of the county also received a heavy rain and a part of the electrical storm. Lightning ran down into the telephone at the home of Lige Billings, north of Glenwood and tore it from the wall. It also struck the roof, knocking three shingles off the southeast corner of the house and splintering a post on the northeast corner. A crack of about an inch was made in the cement under the porch. The lumber was so wet that a blaze was not started.

The electrical storm was also severe at Raleigh, but no damage resulted. The southern part of the county received a good rain.

The rain had the desired effect in cooling the atmosphere and the heat wave of the past ten days was apparently broken. The temperature yesterday reached the ninety-five mark and this morning at seven o'clock had dropped to seventy-two degrees. While the sun was again very warm today there was a stiff breeze from the east and the change in temperature was easily noticed.

The company has branches in every city of size in the country.

Under the term of the will Wallace Morgan is named as executor.

HUGHES FAVORS U. S. AMENDMENT

G. O. P. Candidate for President
That is Way to Dispose of
Womans Suffrage Question

STATEMENT TO UTAH SENATOR

Declares Amendment Should be Submitted and Ratified and Removed From Discussion

(By United Press.)

New York, August 1.—Charles E. Hughes today declared for a woman's suffrage amendment to the constitution in a telegram sent Senator George Sutherland, of Utah.

"My view is that the proposed amendment should be submitted and ratified," the Republican candidate said in his telegram to the Utah senator.

The telegram from Sutherland which brought Hughes' declaration asserted there was nothing in the Republican platform which in any manner conflicts with such a declaration and stated that the platform commits the party to the principles of woman suffrage.

"It is silent upon the subject of the constitutional amendment and therefore leaves everybody of the party free to determine for himself this question," stated the Utah senator's message.

Hughes reply to Senator Sutherland said:

"My dear Senator: Your telegram has been received. In my answer to the notification I did not refer to the proposed amendment relating to woman suffrage and this was not mentioned in the platform. I have no objection, however, to stating my personal view. As I said in my speech I think it to be most desirable that the question woman suffrage be settled promptly. The question is of such a nature that it should be settled for the entire country.

"My view is that the proposed amendment should be submitted and ratified and the subject removed from political discussion.

"Very sincerely yours,
CHARLES EVANS HUGHES."

NATIONS ARE AT LAST STAND

Start of Third Year of War Finds
Neither Side Able as Yet to Dictate Peace Terms.

OTHER FORCES PLAY PART

Influences Which May Finally Decide
Struggle Are Finance, Economic
and Food Terms.

By J. W. T. MASON.

(Written for United Press.)

New York, Aug. 1.—The warring nations of Europe are at their last stand, as they enter today upon the third year of the conflict.

Two years of prodigal expenditures, of enormous losses and of indecisive victories and defeats have led up to the final phase of the great struggle which discloses neither side able as yet to dictate terms to the other. The Allies and the Central Empires have not even decided among themselves as to the details of their own terms. This must be the principal work of their statesmen during the third year of the war.

The two years of conflict have demonstrated that in a war as complex as is the European struggle, other forces besides those controlled by the militarists play an increasingly important part in the final outcome. The present war map, showing the German lines extending far into enemy countries, and showing also the loss of Germany's colonial empire, is but one element that must enter into any discussion of peace. Lines on either side may hold, but once the enemy establishes a definite superiority in man-killing power, this fact will have a new bearing on peace negotiations.

Three other influences are at work in the final phase of the war: Financial, economic and food. Financially, Europe at large is approaching a limit of impossible taxation after the war, to pay the interest on the money now being so readily borrowed under the influence of patriotic fervor. Belligerent statesmen are entering upon the third year of the war with serious financial misgivings that will probably stimulate interest in peace as new borrowings of billions become necessary. It is practically certain that in some of the warring nations, thinly disguised socialistic seizures of property will have to be made, to pay the war bills, even if the war doesn't last a day longer. If peace continues to be evasive far into the third year of the war, there will be few countries that in the end will be able to avoid widespread confiscation.

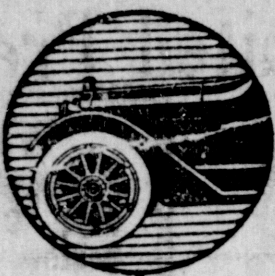

Economically, the two years of warfare have not been disastrous for any particular belligerents. Workingmen's wages, in general, have risen higher than the increased cost of living. The dispatch of so many millions of men to the front and the use of so many millions more in munition factories have caused a scarcity of ordinary labor throughout Europe.

The Central Empires, however, will feel a serious economic strain when the war is over, because their supply of raw materials is rapidly becoming exhausted. The Allies have been able to import raw materials continuously during the war, while Germany and Austro-Hungary have had to live on their reserves. How to purchase raw materials from abroad in sufficient quantities to provide for the millions of Teuton soldiers returning to workshops and factories after peace is declared, will present a serious problem for Berlin and Vienna to solve.

For two years the supply of food in the Teutonic countries has been constantly dropping. The enforcement of a low dietary scale upon the

FIRST PATIENT IS RELEASED

(By United Press.)

New York, August 1.—First proof of the success of the new adrenalin treatment in infantile paralysis came today when a baby boy was discharged from a hospital cured after a course of the treatment. Thirty more baby patients who were treated with adrenalin are ready to be discharged, it is stated. All had the intraspinal injections of the drug as suggested by the Rockefeller institute.

There were 159 new cases reported today against 133 yesterday. The deaths of the past 24 hours set a new record—fifty-seven. Yesterday the mortality was only thirty-five. Health Commissioner Emerson stated this afternoon that there were approximately 1,600 children now ready to leave hospitals, having been cured.

"SURVIVAL OF THE FITTEST"

A proprietary medicine like everything else that comes before the public has to prove its merit. It has to meet competition. The law of the "Survival of the Fittest" applies to this as to other things. The fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after forty years of success is still one of the largest sellers proves that it is a dependable, standard remedy for the ailments of womankind, and one in which they have perfect confidence.

KAISER STARTS SPEECH MAKING

Inaugurated Campaign Throughout Germany to Unify Empire on Germany's Peace Terms.

FIFTY ORATORS ON STUMP

May Mean Re-establishing of Friendly Terms Between Chancellor and His Enemies.

(By United Press.)

Berlin, August 1.—The Kaiser today inaugurated a speechmaking propaganda throughout Germany to unify the empire on Germany's peace terms and to prepare the public mind for peace.

Under the auspices of The German National Committee, an organization having the approval of the official censorship, fifty well known German orators will make the same speech in fifty German cities today. The speech is unofficially known to represent Chancellor von Bethmann Hollweg's peace term views.

The speech is being awaited with the keenest interest by both friends and foes of Dr. Hollweg.

This propaganda may mark the beginning of re-established friendly relations between the Chancellor and those with whom he has politically disagreed on the conduct of the war.

Dr. Hollweg is the man who engineered the ousting of Grand Admiral von Tirpitz and his submarine warfare campaign and kept friendly relations with the United States when a break seemed imminent.

It is known that the Moderate, Conservative, National-Liberal and Catholic elements have been striving to make a reconciliation between the Chancellor and the Pan-German element.

New York, August 1.—E. L. McKenzie, president of the National Storage company, was arrested today charged with manslaughter in connection with the $20,000,000 fire on Black Tom.

McKenzie declared positively there had been no infringement of the law in any respect. He was released on $5,000 bond.

The ruins on Black Tom looked even more like a battlefield today when several aeroplanes circled above the still smoking embers and the craters caused by the explosions. Firemen were still pouring water on the blaze today.

One Wilson's Side

A very enlightening series of articles is appearing in the Indianapolis Star making public for the first time the confidential dispatches which Henry Lane Wilson, as ambassador to Mexico, sent to his chief, the secretary of state, of the United States, detailing the exact conditions in Mexico during the tumultuous times of the overthrow of Diaz and the subsequent overthrow and murder of Madero by Huerta.

It will be recalled that, apparently for political reasons, President Wilson recalled Ambassador Wilson when he assumed office and sent to Mexico one who was wholly unfamiliar with the conditions of the country. The president's selection of an ambassador was about as ill-advised as has been in subsequent policy in Mexico.

The confidential dispatches thus far published reveal the then Ambassador Wilson's intimate knowledge of the character of the Mexican people. They also reveal that he was acquainted with the trend of the public mind because he predicted most of the catastrophes that have taken place in Mexico during the last five or six years.

Mr. Wilson's dispatches furthermore show that there was some respect for American life and property in Mexico previous to the present administration. The holdings of Americans residing in Mexico was not destroyed and Americans were not murdered by the wholesale. It should be kept in mind all the time that these confidential messages have not just been prepared for political expediency, but that they were written shortly before President Wilson came into office and can be verified by the files in the secretary of state's office, Washington.

Discussing a possible revolution during the Madero regime, Ambassador Wilson wrote, showing the effect of the U. S. policy in Mexico before Wilson became president:

"The activity of our government in enforcing the neutrality laws has in my opinion put an end for the present to the Reyes revolutionary movement, as it can never be successful unless permitted to co-operate from American soil. Our prompt action in this matter is most deeply appreciated by the present government."

GIVES POLICIES IN N. Y. SPEECH

Charles E. Hughes Makes Plain His Ideas on Issues That are Paramount in Campaign

NOTIFICATION MEETING HELD

Says Dealings of Present Administration With Mexico is Confused Chapter of Blunders

New York, August 1.—In a speech replete with virile Americanism and full of scathing denunciation for the present administration's alleged vacillating foreign policy, Charles E. Hughes, in accepting the Republican nomination for President, addressed an enthusiastic crowd that packed Carnegie Hall.

In terms which left no room for doubt, he outlined the issues upon which he will conduct his campaign. He assailed the administration for the course it has pursued with reference to Mexico and the maintenance of American rights during the European war.

In denouncing hyphenism he said: "We denounce all plots and conspiracies in the interest of any foreign nation. Utterly intolerable is the use of our soil for alien intrigues. Every American must unreservedly condemn them and support every effort for their suppression."

The audience cheered for several minutes when Mr. Hughes appeared shortly after eight o'clock. The nominee, recognizing Theodore Roosevelt in one of the boxes, waved to him and Col. Roosevelt clapped his hands in acknowledgment. Mr. Hughes frequently was interrupted in his speech by applause and laughter.

In an interview Col. Roosevelt said of the speech:

"It was an admirable speech and I wish to call attention to the following points," said Col. Roosevelt in a statement issued after the meeting.

"I am particularly pleased with the exposure of the folly, and worse than folly of Mr. Wilson's Mexican policy and of the way in which this policy has brought humiliation to the United States and disaster to Mexico itself."

"Moreover, I am very glad of the straight forward manner in which Mr. Hughes has shown the ridicule with which Mr. Wilson has covered this nation by the manner in which he allowed foreign powers to gain the impression that, although he used the strongest words in diplomacy, they were not to be taken seriously."

He declared for a new policy of "firmness and consistency" toward Mexico, for "the unflinching maintenance of all American rights on land and sea," and for "adequate national defense; adequate protection on both our Western and Eastern coasts."

The nominee assailed the administration for its "direction of diplomatic intercourse" from the beginning, declaring that where there should have been conspicuous strength and expertness there had been weakness, inexperience and "leisurely discussion." He cited San Domingo as an example where appointments had gone to "deserving Democrats," and to the failure to continue Ambassador Herrick at his post in Paris after the war had started as a "lamentable sacrifice of repute."

"I endorse the declaration in the platform in favor of woman suffrage," Mr. Hughes declared. And he added: "Opposition may delay, but, in my judgment, can not defeat this movement. * * * I favor the vote for women."

One-fourth of the speech was devoted to Mexico. Step after step taken by the administration with reference to Mexico was assailed from the days of Huerta to the note sent the de facto government by the State Department June 20 last, part of which was quoted in the speech. The seizure of Vera Cruz, the nominee said, "was war, of course."

CHICKEN THIEVES STEAL 200 FOWLS

Become Active in Operations, Visiting Home of John Culbertson Early Sunday Morning

OTHER THEFTS REPORTED

The chicken house at the home of John Culbertson, just east of Glenwood was raided late Saturday night or early Sunday morning and about two hundred fowls taken. The sheriff of Fayette county was called and while no arrests have been made several men are under surveillance. This is the second time the thieves have visited the Culbertson place. About one week ago a hundred hens were taken from this place.

The Culbertson place is not the only one visited in the past month. Several people living near Orange have reported prowlers at night and more than one shot has been fired. When Riley Stewart was shot while stealing chickens at the home of P. T. Bilby it was believed that chicken stealing would cease in this community. The people who have missed chickens are aroused and declare that if another death is necessary to break up the practice they are willing to take the responsibility.

Campaign of State Board of Health Finally Has Effect on Indianapolis and They Go

ORDER BASED ON RECENT LAW

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Aug. 1.—The old oaken bucket, the gourd dipper and the tin cup at the town pump were buried in a common grave in Indiana today by order of the state board of health.

The board of health order which became effective today is based on the law which empowers the board of health to abolish conditions which cause and spread disease. "There are fewer public drinking cups in Indiana now than there were a few years ago, before the campaign for better sanitary conditions was inaugurated. After today it is hoped there will be no public cups," said Dr. J. N. Hurty, secretary of the state board of health, today.

NATIONS IN EUROPEAN WAR ARE AT LAST STAND

Germans has undoubtedly had some depressing moral effects, but there is as yet no evidence that actual starvation for the mass of the people is imminent. If the Russian armies, however, can reach the grain fields and cattle pastures of Hungary and Galicia before the August harvesting is over, the Teutons may yet be starved into surrender. But as the third year of the war begins, it seems as if the Russian offensive started too late to accomplish this objective.

Popular Spirit in England

BY ED. L. KEEN
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)
London, July 11—(By Mail)—Some Britons are born patriots, others achieve patriotism, and still others—Yes, the paraphrase holds good all the way through. Only, those who have had patriotism thrust upon them constitute a very small minority of the British public. Conscription is no criterion. There were less than a million eligibles left to be conscripted. The majority of these would have volunteered if the reasons why their services were required had been freely, frankly stated. Lots of Britishers have relatives in Missouri; some more skeptical than others. The military powers thought they couldn't take the British public into their confidence without enlightening the Germans. "Your King and country need you," they said. That sufficed for five million men; the others wanted details.

But this installment of war anniversary observations has to do principally with those who have achieved patriotism, and it revolves largely about a man named Ben Tillet—because he is a type.

Before the war Ben was a self-proclaimed international revolutionary socialist. For the period of the war he is neither international, revolutionary nor socialistic. He is all Briton. What he will be after the war, Ben says is his own business. If he weren't over military age, Ben would be in the army. He is doing his bit by preaching patriotism to those who haven't acquired it in full measure.

Ben used to vie with Mrs. Pankhurst for the doubtful distinction of being Trouble-Maker-in-Chief of the British Empire. As head of the Dockers' Union and organizer of the powerful Transport Workers' Federation, he had successfully engineered some most disturbing strikes.

It was to the Tilletts and Pankhursts of England and the Casements of Ireland, that Germany looked for substantial aid. But mostly her calculations went wrong. Social and industrial unrest in England didn't mean pro-Germanism or anti-Britishism when the empire became involved in outside difficulties.

There were serious labor disputes in the early days—two of them, big, involving the Welsh coal-miners and the Clyde ship-workers. But in these there were other causes than lack of patriotism. The strikers felt that they had been unduly exploited. Their sole demand was that they be accorded a reasonable share of the war profits from their labor. In both the big strikes, the men won.

This year's disturbance on the Clyde was different. It was obviously organized by men of pro-German sympathies and most Britishers believe, financed by Germans. The labor leaders had no part in it; they protested against it. The government sequestered the agitators and killed the strike.

As to the attitude of British labor generally toward the war: No fewer than 4,800,000 of the five million volunteer soldiers were drawn from the working classes. But this is only part of the story.

The Tilletts of England, men who previously had put the rights of organized labor above everything else, have surrendered their most cherished principles. In the interest of the Empire the trade unions have forfeited for the period of the war practically all they had succeeded in establishing through desperate and bitter struggle. Their greatest sacrifice was the "dilution of labor" or placing unskilled workers on a par with the skilled—both men and women. The bars of unionism have been let completely down in the name of patriotism. The Unions' agreement with the government provides:

"Co-operative efforts to increase production by the adoption of ALL expedients which tend to increase and maintain output; interchangeability inside the trade of various classes who are members of the trade; suspension for the period of the war of all internal lines of demarcation, and introduction from allied and other trades of skilled men, unskilled men, and women."

This is organized labor's reply to the charge of lack of patriotism. The unions are still passing resolutions against the principle and application of conscription against the one because it is repugnant to the ideals of unionism and against the other because they still think it unnecessary. But there have been and will be no draft riots in England as there were in New York during the Civil War.

Popular Spirit in Germany.

By CARL W. ACKERMAN.

Berlin, July 4 (By Mail)—An American diplomat recently declared the greatest mistake in the war is the use of the term "Militarism." "No one," he said, "will ever agree on what it means and it is going to be difficult to end the war because of that."

The spirit of the German people during the last year cannot be shown without discussing "German Militarism." In outlining the people's attitude toward the war, the Kaiser and the government, Militarism will not be justified or criticized. Recent developments in Germany will be discussed in their relation to what is generally termed Germany's military party.

At the beginning of the war there was great enthusiasm throughout Germany. More than a million men volunteered to fight. During the first year they fought hard, died or were wounded. The people at home began to economize. This spirit carried the armies far into France and Russia.

During the second year this enthusiasm has not been so great, but the determination of the people has not abated. They want peace at once, if they can obtain reasonable terms of peace. If they had to vote to go on until they can get these terms of the enemy, they would vote to go on.

Germany wants peace because Germany believes she has won the war. There are critics and grumblers dissatisfied with everything. Every belligerent has about as many as the other. The difference is that in England they grumble publicly, in Germany they cannot; and when people cannot criticize publicly, they do it twice as hard privately.

The people are individually personally interested in the war because every person has some relative at the front. The best indication of the public support of the war is the vote of the Reichstag in June of the new war credit of two billion marks. There was less opposition to it then than to the one before. The Socialists supported it for the fourth time and Socialist members of the Reichstag are in hourly touch with public sentiment.

Philip Scheidemann, a Socialist leader, is one of the best informed men in Germany on public sentiment. Scheidemann is in constant communication with the Imperial Chancellor. The Chancellor is received more often by the Kaiser than any other of the ministers. Scheidemann and his followers did not have confidence in the Chancellor and in the Kaiser there would be more evidences of it in the Reichstag. The Kaiser trusts the Chancellor's judgment absolutely. Scheidemann trusts the Chancellor's judgment and the public trusts the Socialist leader.

So the public still has confidence in the aims of the government as announced by von Bethmann-Hollweg in the Reichstag.

The people themselves deny that they are militaristic. They believe their army is their police force, for defence. To the people, this is a defense war. They are not fighting to hold Belgium, Poland or Serbia. They are against annexation. If the war lasts longer and they are further victorious, they may change, but

Use Coconut Oil For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulsified coconut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

●You can get mulsified coconut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

S. E. T. CLUB

About eighteen members of the S. E. T. club were the guests of Miss Lucy Inlow and Mrs. Lee Pyle at the home of the latter in North Morgan street this afternoon. A very agreeable afternoon was spent by the ladies as they conversed over their needlework. A dainty luncheon was served by the hostesses late in the afternoon. Mrs. Oliver Troutman of Nicholasville, Ky., the guest of Miss Mary Amos, was among the guests.

AT GLENBUSH.

A card party has been planned for the afternoon.

PITCH-IN CLUB

At the spacious country home of Miss Edith Buell, east of the city, the members of the Pitch-In Club had the sort of a meeting that their name suggests today. The dinner served at noon was delicious and the afternoon was pleasantly spent by the congenial group forming the club. In the club are Mrs. Hubert Innis, Mrs. E. J. Knecht, Mrs. R. E. Harold, the Misses Esther and Helen Black, Clorene Amos, Hannah Morris, Edith Buell, Mayme Hiner and Fanny Stiers.

HAPPY-GO-LUCKY

Mrs. Lewis M. Clark of North Main street was hostess this afternoon to the members of the Happy-Go-Lucky Club. Pretty bouquets of golden glow brightened the rooms where the ladies spent the afternoon. Similar flowers were also placed on the small tables at which the sixteen guests were seated to enjoy the delicious two course supper which was served. Miss Mary Elizabeth Davidson of Columbus and Mrs. Ben Humes of south of the city were the only invited guests aside from the club members.

AT FALMOUTH

A very enjoyable day was spent at the beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Dolan south of Falmouth when they entertained a number of their friends at dinner. Pretty bouquets of summer flowers were generously used in the rooms. An elegant two course dinner was served. Covers at the dinner were laid for Mrs. Elizabeth Cribbs and children of Indianapolis, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Kennedy of Bentonville, Mrs. Nelle Eubank, and children, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dickey, Mr. and Mrs. Herschell Rhodes, Miss Mable Suter, Miss Miriam Fry, Glen Dolan and D. C. Allen.

PRETTY BREAKFAST

Another one of the lovely episodes of the week was the breakfast given this morning by Miss Kathryn Guffin at her home in North Harrison street honoring the visitors from Huntington, W. Va. An airy color scheme of yellow and white made the table particularly refreshing for the service of the dainty three course breakfast. At each place was a tiny envelope containing a clever invitation from Miss Gladys Tittsworth to the party she is giving Thursday evening for a number of her friends. The girls invited in at the breakfast for the pleasure of the guests of honor were the Misses Gladys Tittsworth, Dorothy Frazee, Kathryn Wooden, Dorothy Sparks, Esther Anderson, Margaret Ball, Dorothy there is no indication of it now. Whatever happens a great deal will depend on the attitude of the press. The Germans know there has been a strong military party and they know this party is today politically weaker than it ever has been.

At the beginning of the war there were three public leaders of the group of politicians called in America, "Imperialists." The Republican party in America, for instance, has been known as the Imperialistic party. Germany has a Republican party. The "Uncle Joe Cannon" of this party was Von Heydebrand, a conservative, annexationist member of the Reichstag. The "Big Navy Man" was Grand Admiral von Tirpitz. The "Big Army Man" was General von Moltke and General von Bernhardi.

Heydebrand now has practically no influence outside his party and the other parties in the Reichstag outvote his party nearly two to one. Tirpitz has resigned and has been succeeded by a friend of the Chancellor. Moltke no longer is chief of staff. He has been succeeded by a man who is one of the Kaiser's best friends and a man who during the crisis with America worked for an adjustment to avoid a break. Bernhardi practically unknown to the German public, has been commander of an army in Posen since the beginning of the war. He has no influence in the government.

Popular Spirit in France

By HENRY WOOD
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Paris, July 4 (By Mail)—"There is not a single piece of gold to be found in my house today."

With eyes flashing pride and voice vibrating with enthusiasm these words were pronounced to me by Professor Alcide Betrine of No. 166 Boulevard Montparnasse. I picked him at random to tell me something of the spirit of the French people after two years of war.

Professor Betrine has grown gray in the public school service of France. He is entitled to retire on a pension but he won't do it while the war lasts. Professor Betrine is proud to be able to say:

"For the first time in my life and in generations in the history of my family, there is not a single gold piece to be found in my house today. I have turned it all into the Bank of France for the National Defense."

The boast of Professor Betrine today is the boast of practically every family in France. Within the last year the French voluntarily have exchanged for flimsy French banknotes over $325,000,000 gold. This stream of gold has been flowing for a year and is still flowing at from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000 a week. Such is the spirit of the French after two years of war.

"In every French family there are but two great passions—The only son and the little family hoard of gold."

It is the "little hoard of gold," on which every French household is built. Gold, in the popular French conception, is the one real, tangible thing in life on which anyone under any circumstances, can always count. It is the family's life, death, accident, health, marriage and disaster insurance in one.

Even if the "Boches" had actually reached Paris, the average Frenchman would have known he could still count on his gold to help him out.

This confidence in gold has reached in France, among the masses the status almost of a fetish. In thousands of families the gold has passed from generation to generation and been added to until it has taken on the additional sentimental value of a most highly prized heirloom. The average Frenchman figures his future and that of his family on his gold reserve.

Knowing all this, the government did not hesitate to ask for it. But it asked, it did not command. It knew that however much the bold meant to its sons and daughters, "La Patrie" meant much more.

The average French family is inclined to be rather hard headed, calculating money-seeking and saving. "Hard-headed thrift" might easily pass as the motto in French family life.

Early in the war there was published in France and elsewhere an article of presumed German origin explaining why the war with France would not last long.

The French common people, it asserted, would never permit the war to reach a point where it would effect either their regular sources of income or the amount of money they might already have saved. That was one of the things the Germans counted on for a quick short campaign in France before turning to smite Russia.

Germany was mistaken as in the Irish rebellion, Canadian secession and Mohammedan uprising in English colonies. The French population has placed patriotism before pocket books.

The greatest test that could be applied to the French people after they had parted with their sons was to ask them to part without a sou of recompense or premium, with their little family hoard of gold.

This is far from telling all the story of the possibilities of French thrift. It has enabled them to do far more than give the government gold. The French people have also subscribed some $3,000,000,000 to France's famous "Loan of Victory." French thrift—coupled necessarily with French spirit—has furnished France with the financial sinews for prosecuting the war. Parting with the gold was purely a matter of patriotic sentiment. Subscribing to the loan was a matter of careful investment.

Popular Spirit in Russia.

By William Philip Simms.
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Petrograd, July 4—(By Mail)—Twenty-four months of war has made a new country of Russia. The spirit of the people has changed. Confirmed pessimists admit that the war has worked a miracle.

Two years ago, when fighting began, Russia, like England and France, was torn by internal dissension. Her many races were at odds. A strike of serious proportions was on. Things looked dark for the Empire.

Russia today is more united than she ever has been. She is better organized. Every city and town in the land belongs to a Municipal Union to aid the nation. Every village and rural district has joined a second and similar organization. In all Russia, including Siberia, there is scarcely a single peasant not working for the army or some public good.

Up to August, 1914, of nearly 200 million Russian subjects, few had taken direct part in any public or national work. They are today nearly all doing their bit. This fact is lending a brand new tone to the Empire.

A war of gigantic proportions makes or breaks a participant. For Russia this one promises to be a blessing in disguise, according to notoriously conservative thinkers here, who believe they see in the war-time spirit of the public the commencement of unprecedented developments.

The Russian Duma is composed of Princes and Peasants, millowners and workmen, college professors and farmers, Jews, Gentiles, Poles, Armenians, Cossacks, Orthodox priests and free thinkers, so mixed a body with such varied interests, that people have said it never could do valuable work because it never could agree. Here is what happened in the Duma when the war broke out:

On August 8, a week after hostilities began, the two houses met at the Winter Palace of the Czar. The Emperor made a short speech saying:

"I am persuaded that all of you will be in your place to assist me to support the test, and that all beginning with myself, will do their duty. Great is the God of the Russian Fatherland."

A great cheer went up from Duma. One by one party leaders came forward and pledged themselves to work for the common good. Even Parshkevich, the implacable leader of the anti-semites, abandoned his principles. Today the Duma places the army's interests first.

"This is no time to squabble over reforms," Radzianko, the Duma's president replied when I asked him if any important reform bills were on the present session's program. And again, when I asked him why such short sessions and long recesses, he said:

"Duma members are mostly farmers. We can do more good for the army plowing than we can talking."

The Russian Duma is probably the most really representative body of the sort in the world and when its president said that, he was not merely sounding a phrase. It was evident that he was in earnest. Every Duma member with whom I talked said the same thing.

To take advantage of Russia's situation and use it to force through even cherished reforms appealed to Duma-ites as unfair. They feel that rows in the Duma would weaken the nation in her fight for life.

Citizen organizations for aiding Russia make war have made it possible for millions to take part in public work who until now never knew what such work was like. This is boosting the spirit of the country wonderfully.

Imagine every county of every state in the United States having a council of representative citizens—farmers, landowners, villagers. Now if every one of these organizations joined in a single body to help the Army do its work, such an organization would be similar to the All-Russian Zemstvo Union, only—there are nearly 200 million Russians, 80 per cent of whom are peasants and thus either directly or indirectly interested in Zemstvo work.

Imagine again every city council or board of aldermen in the United States forming one association to aid the army: This body would be like the All-Russian Municipality Union, which brings city dwellers into public work.

Lastly, if American country folks and city folks should join hands by means of a joint board to control things and prevent overlappings, the result would be what the Russians have achieved in their Central Committee of members chosen by the All-Russian Zemstvo Union and by the All-Russian Municipality Union.

Popular Spirit in Italy

By JOHN H. HEARLEY
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Rome, July 4. (By Mail)—The manner in which the people of Italy celebrated the first anniversary of the war recently offers the best impression of Italy's spirit.

The event was everywhere celebrated with splendid shows of patriotic enthusiasm. The capital and other Italian cities made holidays to observe the occasion most fittingly.

The Roman Corso staged a shouting, singing and gesticulating procession of almost 200,000 people.

The populace, the military and governmental and civic officialdom took part. Flag-bearing women and children mixed with the men and boys in the long march from the Piazza del Popolo to the Piazza Venezia.

Broken veterans of 1870 in their tattered but treasured Garibaldian uniforms toiled along with the marchers.

Countless bands, all really musical, played the stirring martial music of Italy and her allies. The buildings, which aisled the route, were gay with the banners of England and France and the Italian tri-color.

The moment of the celebration made it the more remarkably significant. The Austrians had just begun their fierce offensive in the Trentino. They had even been successful in their initial movements. Their greater strength in cannon and the favoring topography of the battleground had been responsible.

Rome, like the rest of Italy, was full of wild and generally exaggerated rumors. The gossip, usually calculated to dishearten a people, was current.

Stories of enemy advances and alleged traitors in Italy's own camp, of alleged captures or annihilation of important generals and regiments were on many tongues. Nothing, however, could dispirit the courageous people.

"Temporary reverses," only hardened their determination to win and whipped their pride to greater efforts. Therefore they celebrated the anniversary by flinging into the face of the enemy not a decreasing, but an increasing enthusiasm for war.

Much credit is due the country's women of the people. They responded nobly to the general call for self-sacrifice. Girls replaced the male conductors on the street cars and the male sweepers of the streets.

In great measure the fields began to be tilled and the crops gathered by women. Other feminine substitutes, permitting able-bodied men to train for war, were employed.

Even society gave up its money and its pleasures.

An automobile driven by Frank Vandiver and occupied by his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Baker, all of Glenwood, turned over in a ditch Sunday night east of Glenwood. As the machine was approaching a culvert the lights suddenly went out and before Mr. Vandiver could stop the car it swerved to the left and the front wheel went over the bank pulling the car in the same direction. Baker's shoulder was slightly wrenched and Mrs. Baker sustained a sprained ankle.

MURDER IN FIRST DEGREE CHARGED

Affidavit is Filed Late Today Against
George W. Clingman for Shooting George Perry.

HIS BOND IS FIXED AT $1,000

It is Immediately Given and Cling-man is Released Until Final
Action is Taken.

THIS CHARGE IS IMPERATIVE

Must be First Degree and if Indictment Should be Returned Degree
Would be Determined.

An affidavit charging first degree murder was filed this afternoon in circuit court against George W. Clingman, who has been held in jail since Sunday morning following the death of George Perry, whom he shot with a rifle after mistaking a party of fishermen for robbers.

Clingman's attorneys had made arrangements for giving bond and it was expected he would be released immediately. Judge Sparks was called to the court house and fixed the amount of the bond at $1,000. Lon Mull promptly provided bond and Clingman was released immediately.

The affidavit was signed by Clayton Perry, a brother of the dead man, and a member of the fishing party that visited the Mull farm, northeast of Manilla last Saturday night. It is alleged that Clingman "feloniously and purposely and with premeditated malice, did kill and murder George Perry." The affidavit then follows the usual form.

The affidavit charged first degree murder because under this all other forms of murder are included and if the case should be tried the jury has the right to determine what degree, if any, of murder was committed. By making it first degree murder it is possible to try him under any of the degrees.

The filing of the affidavit does not prevent the grand jury from taking up the case and it is expected that the grand jury called for the September term of court will investigate the case.

Dr. Lowell M. Green, county coroner, expected to continue his investigations either this afternoon or tomorrow morning and if possible file his verdict some time Wednesday. The coroner is anxious to get the testimony of Robert Perry, the father of George Perry.

The father was almost prostrated over the tragedy and Sunday and Monday was in no condition to testify before the coroner. In fact, the coroner and his clerk could get nothing from him regarding the case. Clingman decided today that he wanted out of jail and through his attorneys urged the state to file some kind of a charge so he could get out on bond. His father, Rollie Clingman, was in the city most of the day and made arrangements for bondsmen, expecting the state to file a charge.

Congratulations To—

Charles Hugo, a well known resident of this city, who is 67 years old today. He does not look this old, and in fact had forgotten it was his birthday. Mr. Hugo bought an automobile and declares that he already knows more about a machine than Sam Young.

TO SOLICIT FOR VISITING NURSE

Woman's Council Appoints Committee Monday Evening to Get
Subscriptions for Fund.

TO MEET WITH CITY COUNCIL

Another Committee Will Seek Appropriation to Help Defray
Expenses of Public Nurse

An active campaign will be started in about two weeks to solicit subscriptions for the visiting nurse fund. Such was the decision of the Woman's Council when they met at the home of Mrs. A. G. Reeves last evening. A number of important matters were decided upon, the most important ones being relative to the support of the visiting nurse. This campaign will be under the direction of the finance committee which was appointed last evening. The members of this committee are Mrs. A. G. Reeves, Mrs. Raymond Hargrove, Mrs. Lewis Sexton, Miss Anna Gilson, Miss Alma Green, Mrs. Bert Trabue and Miss Anna Bohannon. It is their hope to raise a large part of the necessary amount for the support of the visiting nurse by subscriptions from public spirited citizens.

A committee was also appointed to meet with the city council at one of their meetings during this month and ask for an appropriation from the city toward this fund. This committee is composed of Dr. Will Coleman, Mrs. Emily Coleman and Miss Anna Bohannon.

It was decided to ask Miss Lora-belle Roser to accept the position as visiting nurse for next year. Miss Roser proved her efficiency last year and it is the universal hope that she can return. The offer of $80 a month is to be made to her. In case she cannot return, it was decided to offer not more than $75 a month to her successor.

Not all the attention of the Council, however, is to be devoted to the visiting nurse. Civic welfare is to be a matter of interest. A sanitation committee was appointed, which is to investigate civic conditions and cleanliness in the city and make a monthly report to the council. Several new by-laws were added to the constitution Monday evening.

The next meeting of the Council will be held September 4th. in the directors room of the Rushville National Bank. Twelve delegates attended the meeting last evening.

IS "REPEATER" AT COLUMBUS

James Whitcomb Brougner, Coming
to Chautauqua Here, Speaks at
Assembly There Tonight

SECOND YEAR AT COLUMBUS

Zedeler Symphonic Sextette, Which
Will Appear in Rushville,
Praised in Bartholomew

Two of the leading attractions at the Columbus chautauqua, which opened Sunday, will be at the Rush county chautauqua, which opens next Sunday and continues up to and including the following Sunday. James Whitcomb Brougner, who will lecture next Wednesday evening, appears at Columbus tonight and the Zedeler Sextette, which is here the last two days, closed an engagement of two days at Columbus last night.

It reflects credit to the Rush county chautauqua when it is considered that the Columbus chautauqua is charging an extra admission because Brougner is on the program tonight, but he is brought to the Rush county chautauqua and no more admission is charged than for any other programs, except Sunday, on which more money is expended and greater effort made to get an exceptional program. Concerning the Zedelers, the Columbus Republican says:

The Zedeler Symphonic Sextette made its initial appearance Sunday afternoon and charmed the big audience. The Zedelers are master musicians, presenting extremely high class programs. However, they have the knack of "putting it over," whereby every person in the audience knows and understands the most serious classical composition before it is begun. Mr. Zedeler gives a brief explanation of each number. This organization was on the program this afternoon and will close its engagement with a popular concert tonight.

And the Republican is even more lavish in discussing the approaching appearance of Dr. Brougner tonight:

Perhaps the biggest crowd of chautauqua week is expected in Donner Park tomorrow. Tuesday the attractions will be the White Hussars and the Rev. James Whitcomb Brougner. This will be the only week day on which an increased admission is charged.

At night the Hussars will prelude, after which the Rev. James Whitcomb Brougner will lecture. He was here last year and is one of the few "repeaters." Dr. Brougner is a native of Jennings county and a delegation of his old friends and neighbors are coming to greet him here. While in Columbus he will be the guest of Dr. and Mrs. George T. MacCoy. He spends Monday night in Indianapolis, and will arrive here Tuesday afternoon.

STORM ENDS HOT WEATHER

Several Electrical Displays and .8 of
Inch Rainfall Causes Drop in Temperature.

VERY LITTLE DAMAGE DONE

Lightning Plays Many Tricks at the
Home of Fred Martin, Near Falmouth.

Probably the most severe electrical storm of the summer passed over this city and county last evening shortly after five o'clock. No great damage resulted, which is considered remarkable in view of the amount of lightning.

The storm was accompanied by considerable wind and passed from the northwest to southeast. Most of the county received a heavy rain, with the exception of the western edge. There was hardly any rain at Arlington and practically none at Homer. The rainfall amounted to eight-tenths of an inch, according to the report from the government bureau at Maunzy.

In Rushville the lightning burned out a fuse at the water and light plant and as a result most of the city was in darkness as far as street lights were concerned. The damage did not affect the commercial circuits and hindered only the smaller street lights.

The home of Fred Martin, near Falmouth, was struck by lightning, but was not fired. The lightning played several freaks, at the Martin home, tearing a screen door from its hinges and burning out the telephone. The lightning struck the roof and then jumped to the screen door. The door was badly battered and torn, showing that the bolt struck with great force.

The eastern part of the county also received a heavy rain and a part of the electrical storm. Lightning ran down into the telephone at the home of Lige Billings, north of Glenwood and tore it from the wall. It also struck the roof, knocking three shingles off the southeast corner of the house and splintering a post on the northeast corner. A crack of about an inch was made in the cement under the porch. The lumber was so wet that a blaze was not started.

The electrical storm was also severe at Raleigh, but no damage resulted. The southern part of the county received a good rain.

The rain had the desired effect in cooling the atmosphere and the heat wave of the past ten days was apparently broken. The temperature yesterday reached the ninety-five mark and this morning at seven o'clock had dropped to seventy-two degrees. While the sun was again very warm today there was a stiff breeze from the east and the change in temperature was easily noticed.

HUGHES FAVORS U. S. AMENDMENT

G. O. P. Candidate for President
That is Way to Dispose of
Woman's Suffrage Question

STATEMENT TO UTAH SENATOR

Declares Amendment Should be Submitted and Ratified and Re-
moved From Discussion

(By United Press.)

New York, August 1.—Charles E. Hughes today declared for a woman's suffrage amendment to the constitution in a telegram sent Senator George Sutherland, of Utah. "My view is that the proposed amendment should be submitted and ratified," the Republican candidate said in his telegram to the Utah senator.

The telegram from Sutherland which brought Hughes' declaration asserted there was nothing in the Republican platform which in any manner conflicts with such a declaration and stated that the platform commits the party to the principles of woman's suffrage.

"It is silent upon the subject of the constitutional amendment and therefore leaves everybody of the party free to determine for himself this question," stated the Utah senator's message.

Hughes reply to Senator Sutherland said:

"My dear Senator: Your telegram has been received. In my answer to the notification I did not refer to the proposed amendment relating to woman's suffrage and this was not mentioned in the platform. I have no objection, however, to stating my personal view. As I said in my speech I think it to be most desirable that the question woman's suffrage be settled promptly. The question is of such a nature that it should be settled for the entire country.

"My view is that the proposed amendment should be submitted and ratified and the subject removed from political discussion.

"Very sincerely yours,
CHARLES EVANS HUGHES."

NATIONS ARE AT LAST STAND

Start of Third Year of War Finds
Neither Side Able as Yet to Dictate Peace Terms.

OTHER FORCES PLAY PART

Influences Which May Finally Decide
Struggle Are Finance, Economic
and Food Terms.

By J. W. T. MASON.
(Written for United Press.)

New York, Aug. 1.—The warring nations of Europe are at their last stand, as they enter today upon the third year of the conflict.

Two years of prodigal expenditures, of enormous losses and of indecisive victories and defeats have led up to the final phase of the great struggle which discloses neither side able as yet to dictate terms to the other. The Allies and the Central Empires have not even decided among themselves as to the details of their own terms. This must be the principal work of their statesmen during the third year of the war.

The two years of conflict have demonstrated that in a war as complex as the European struggle, other forces besides those controlled by the militarists play an increasingly important part in the final outcome. The present war map, showing the German lines extending far into enemy countries, and showing also the loss of Germany's colonial empire, is but one element that must enter into any discussion of peace. Lines on either side may hold, but once the enemy establishes a definite superiority in man-killing power, this fact will have a new bearing on peace negotiations.

Three other influences are at work in the final phase of the war: Financial, economic and food. Financially, Europe at large is approaching a limit of impossible taxation after the war, to pay the interest on the money now being so readily borrowed under the influence of patriotic fervor. Belligerent statesmen are entering upon the third year of the war with serious financial misgivings that will probably stimulate interest in peace as new borrowings of billions become necessary. It is practically certain that in some of the warring nations, thinly disguised socialistic seizures of property will have to be made, to pay the war bills, even if the war doesn't last a day longer. If peace continues to be evasive far into the third year of the war, there will be few countries that in the end will be able to avoid widespread confiscation.

Economically, the two years of warfare have not been disastrous for any particular belligerents. Workingmen's wages, in general, have risen higher than the increased cost of living. The dispatch of so many millions of men to the front and the use of so many millions more in munition factories have caused a scarcity of ordinary labor throughout Europe.

The Central Empires, however, will feel a serious economic strain when the war is over, because their supply of raw materials is rapidly becoming exhausted. The Allies have been able to import raw materials continuously during the war, while Germany and Austro-Hungary have had to live on their reserves. How to purchase raw materials from abroad in sufficient quantities to provide for the millions of Teuton soldiers returning to workshops and factories after peace is declared, will present a serious problem for Berlin and Vienna to solve.

For two years the supply of food in the Teutonic countries has been constantly dropping. The enforcement of a low dietary scale upon the

SUCCESS OF NEW TREATMENT SEEN

Adrenalin Shows Results in One Case of Infantile Paralysis and Will in Others.

FIRST PATIENT IS RELEASED

(By United Press.)

New York, August 1.—First proof of the success of the new adrenalin treatment in infantile paralysis came today when a baby boy was discharged from a hospital cured after a course of the treatment. Thirty more baby patients who were treated with adrenalin are ready to be discharged, it is stated. All had the intraspinal injections of the drug as suggested by the Rockefeller institute.

There were 159 new cases reported today against 133 yesterday. The deaths of the past 24 hours set a new record—fifty-seven. Yesterday the mortality was only thirty-five. Health Commissioner Emerson stated this afternoon that there were approximately 1,600 children now ready to leave hospitals, having been cured.

"SURVIVAL OF THE FITTEST"

A proprietary medicine like everything else that comes before the public has to prove its merit. It has to meet competition. The law of the "Survival of the Fittest" applies to this as to other things. The fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after forty years of success is still one of the largest sellers proves that it is a dependable, standard remedy for the ailments of womankind, and one in which they have perfect confidence.

KAISER STARTS SPEECH MAKING

Inaugurated Campaign Throughout Germany to Unify Empire on Germany's Peace Terms.

FIFTY ORATORS ON STUMP

May Mean Re-establishing of Friendly Terms Between Chancellor and His Enemies.

(By United Press.)

Berlin, August 1.—The Kaiser today inaugurated a speechmaking propaganda throughout Germany to unify the empire on Germany's peace terms and to prepare the public mind for peace.

Under the auspices of The German National Committee, an organization having the approval of the official censorship, fifty well known German orators will make the same speech in fifty German cities today. The speech is unofficially known to represent Chancellor von Bethmann Hollweg's peace term views.

The speech is being awaited with the keenest interest by both friends and foes of Dr. Hollweg.

This propaganda may mark the beginning of re-established friendly relations between the Chancellor and those with whom he has politically disagreed on the conduct of the war.

Dr. Hollweg is the man who engineered the ousting of Grand Admiral von Tirpitz and his submarine warfare campaign and kept friendly relations with the United States when a break seemed imminent.

It is known that the Moderate, Conservative, National-Liberal and Catholic elements have been striving to make a reconciliation between the Chancellor and the Pan-German element.

One Wilson's Side

A very enlightening series of articles is appearing in the Indianapolis Star making public for the first time the confidential dispatches which Henry Lane Wilson, as ambassador to Mexico, sent to his chief, the secretary of state, of the United States, detailing the exact conditions in Mexico during the tumultuous times of the overthrow of Diaz and the subsequent overthrow and murder of Madero by Huerta.

It will be recalled that, apparently for political reasons, President Wilson recalled Ambassador Wilson when he assumed office and sent to Mexico one who was wholly unfamiliar with the conditions of the country. The president's selection of an ambassador was about as ill-advised as has been in subsequent policy in Mexico.

The confidential dispatches thus far published reveal the then Ambassador Wilson's intimate knowledge of the character of the Mexican people. They also reveal that he was acquainted with the trend of the public mind because he predicted most of the catastrophes that have taken place in Mexico during the last five or six years.

Mr. Wilson's dispatches furthermore show that there was some respect for American life and property in Mexico previous to the present administration. The holdings of Americans residing in Mexico was not destroyed and Americans were not murdered by the wholesale. It should be kept in mind all the time that these confidential messages have not just been prepared for political expediency, but that they were written shortly before President Wilson came into office and can be verified by the files in the secretary of state's office, Washington.

Discussing a possible revolution during the Madero regime, Ambassador Wilson wrote, showing the effect of the U. S. policy in Mexico before Wilson became president:

"The activity of our government in enforcing the neutrality laws has in my opinion put an end for the present to the Reyes revolutionary movement, as it can never be successful unless permitted to co-operate from American soil. Our prompt action in this matter is most deeply appreciated by the present government."

"I am particularly pleased with the exposure of the folly, and worse than folly of Mr. Wilson's Mexican policy and of the way in which this policy has brought humiliation to the United States and disaster to Mexico itself."

"Moreover, I am very glad of the straight forward manner in which Mr. Hughes has shown the ridicule with which Mr. Wilson has covered this nation by the manner in which he allowed foreign powers to gain the impression that, although he used the strongest words in diplomacy, they were not to be taken seriously."

He declared for a new policy of "firmness and consistency" toward Mexico, for "the unflinching maintenance of all American rights on land and sea," and for "adequate national defense; adequate protection on both our Western and Eastern coasts."

The nominee assailed the administration for its "direction of diplomatic intercourse" from the beginning, declaring that where there should have been conspicuous strength and expertness there had been weakness, inexperience and "leisurely discussion." He cited San Domingo as an example where appointments had gone to "deserving Democrats," and to the failure to continue Ambassador Herrick at his post in Paris after the war had started as a "lamentable sacrifice of reputation."

"I indorse the declaration in the platform in favor of woman suffrage," Mr. Hughes declared. And he added: "Opposition may delay, but, in my judgment, can not defeat this movement. . . . I favor the vote for women."

One-fourth of the speech was devoted to Mexico. Step after step taken by the administration with reference to Mexico was assailed from the days of Huerta to the note sent the de facto government by the State Department June 20 last, part of which was quoted in the speech. The seizure of Vera Cruz, the nominee said "was war, of course."

GIVES POLICIES IN N. Y. SPEECH

Charles E. Hughes Makes Plain His Ideas on Issues That are Paramount in Campaign

NOTIFICATION MEETING HELD.

Says Dealings of Present Administration With Mexico is Confused Chapter of Blunders

New York, August 1.—In a speech replete with virile Americanism and full of scathing denunciation for the present administration's alleged vacillating foreign policy, Charles E. Hughes, in accepting the Republican nomination for President, addressed an enthusiastic crowd that packed Carnegie Hall.

In terms which left no room for doubt, he outlined the issues upon which he will conduct his campaign. He assailed the administration for the course it has pursued with reference to Mexico and the maintenance of American rights during the European war.

In denouncing hyphenism he said: "We denounce all plots and conspiracies in the interest of any foreign nation. Utterly intolerable is the use of our soil for alien intrigues. Every American must unreservedly condemn them and support every effort for their suppression."

The audience cheered for several minutes when Mr. Hughes appeared shortly after eight o'clock. The nominee, recognizing Theodore Roosevelt in one of the boxes, waved to him and Col. Roosevelt clapped his hands in acknowledgment. Mr. Hughes frequently was interrupted in his speech by applause and laughter.

In an interview Col. Roosevelt said of the speech:

"It was an admirable speech and I wish to call attention to the following points," said Col. Roosevelt in a statement issued after the meeting.

"I am particularly pleased with the exposure of the folly, and worse than folly of Mr. Wilson's Mexican policy and of the way in which this policy has brought humiliation to the United States and disaster to Mexico itself."

"Moreover, I am very glad of the straight forward manner in which Mr. Hughes has shown the ridicule with which Mr. Wilson has covered this nation by the manner in which he allowed foreign powers to gain the impression that, although he used the strongest words in diplomacy, they were not to be taken seriously."

CHICKEN THIEVES STEAL 200 FOWLS

Become Active in Operations, Visiting Home of John Culbertson
Early Sunday Morning

OTHER THEFTS REPORTED

The chicken house at the home of John Culbertson, just east of Glenwood was raided late Saturday night or early Sunday morning and about two hundred fowls taken. The sheriff of Fayette county was called and while no arrests have been made several men are under surveillance. This is the second time the thieves have visited the Culbertson place. About one week ago a hundred hens were taken from this place.

The Culbertson place is not the only one visited in the past month. Several people living near Orange have reported prowlers at night and more than one shot has been fired. When Riley Stewart was shot while stealing chickens at the home of E. T. Bilby it was believed that chicken stealing would cease in this community. The people who have missed chickens are aroused and declare that if another death is necessary to break up the practice they are willing to take the responsibility.

CITY SEES LAST OF PUBLIC CUP

Campaign of State Board of Health
Finally Has Effect on Indianapolis and They Go

ORDER BASED ON RECENT LAW

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Aug. 1.—The old oaken bucket, the gourd dipper and the tin cup at the town pump were buried in a common grave in Indiana today by order of the state board of health.

The board of health order which became effective today is based on the law which empowers the board of health to abolish conditions which cause and spread disease.

"There are fewer public drinking cups in Indiana now than there were a few years ago, before the campaign for better sanitary conditions was inaugurated. After today it is hoped there will be no public cups," said Dr. J. N. Hurty, secretary of the state board of health, today.

NATIONS IN EUROPE

Germans has undoubtedly had some depressing moral effects, but there is as yet no evidence that actual starvation for the mass of the people is imminent. If the Russian armies, however, can reach the grain fields and cattle pastures of Hungary and Galicia before the August harvesting is over, the Teutons may yet be starved into surrender. But as the third year of the war begins, it seems as if the Russian offensive started too late to accomplish this objective.

Popular Spirit in England

BY ED. L. KEEN
(U. P. Staff Correspondent).
London, July 11—(By Mail)—Some Britons are born patriots, others achieve patriotism, and still others—Yes, the paraphrase holds good all the way through. Only those who have had patriotism thrust upon them constitute a very small minority of the British public. Conscription is no criterion. There were less than a million eligibles left to be conscripted. The majority of these would have volunteered if the reasons why their services were required had been freely, frankly stated. Lots of Britishers have relatives in Missouri; some more skeptical than others. The military powers thought they couldn't take the British public into their confidence without enlightening the Germans. "Your King and country need you," they said. That sufficed for five million men; the others wanted details.

But this installment of war anniversary observations has to do principally with those who have achieved patriotism, and it revolves largely about a man named Ben Tillett—because he is a type.

Before the war Ben was a self-proclaimed international revolutionary socialist. For the period of the war he is neither international, revolutionary, nor socialist. He is all Britain. What he will be after the war, Ben says, is his own business. If he weren't over military age, Ben would be in the army. He is doing his bit by preaching patriotism to those who haven't acquired it in full measure.

Ben used to vie with Mrs. Pankhurst for the doubtful distinction of being Trouble-Maker-in-Chief of the British Empire. As head of the Dockers' Union and organizer of the powerful Transport Workers' Federation, he had successfully engineered some most disturbing strikes.

It was to the Tilletts and Pankhursts of England and the Casements of Ireland, that Germany looked for substantial aid. But mostly her calculations went wrong. Social and industrial unrest in England didn't mean pro-Germanism or anti-Britishism when the empire became involved in outside difficulties. There were serious labor disputes in the early days—two of them, big, involving the Welsh coal-miners and the Clyde ship-workers. But in these there were other causes than lack of patriotism. The strikers felt that they had been unduly exploited. Their sole demand was that they be accorded a reasonable share of the war profits from their labor. In both the big strikes, the men won.

This year's disturbance on the Clyde was different. It was obviously organized by men of pro-German sympathies and most Britishers believe, financed by Germans. The labor leaders had no part in it; they protested against it. The government sequestered the agitators and killed the strike.

As to the attitude of British labor generally toward the war: No fewer than 4,800,000 of the five million volunteer soldiers were drawn from the working classes. But this is only part of the story.

The Tilletts of England, men who previously had put the rights of organized labor above everything else, have surrendered their most cherished principles. In the interest of the Empire, the trade unions have forfeited for the period of the war practically all they had succeeded in establishing through desperate and bitter struggle. Their greatest sacrifice was the "dilution of labor" or placing unskilled workers on a par with the skilled—both men and women. The bars of unionism have been let completely down in the name of patriotism. The Unions' agreement with the government provides: "Co-operative efforts to increase production by the adoption of ALL expedients, which tend to increase and maintain output; interchangeability inside the trade of various classes who are members of the trade; suspension for the period of the war of all internal lines of demarcation, and introduction from allied and other trades of skilled men, unskilled men, and women."

This is organized labor's reply to the charge of lack of patriotism. The unions are still passing resolutions against the principle and application of conscription against the one because it is repugnant to the ideals of unionism and against the other because they still think it unnecessary. But there have been and will be no draft riots in England as there were in New York during the Civil War.

Popular Spirit in Germany.

By CARL W. ACKERMAN.
Berlin, July 4 (By Mail)—An American diplomat recently declared the greatest mistake in the war is the use of the term "Militarism." "No one," he said, "will ever agree on what it means and it is going to be difficult to end the war because of that."

The spirit of the German people during the last year cannot be shown without discussing "German Militarism." In outlining the people's attitude toward the war, the Kaiser and the government, Militarism will not be justified or criticized. Recent developments in Germany will be discussed in their relation to what is generally termed Germany's military party.

At the beginning of the war there was great enthusiasm throughout Germany. More than a million men volunteered to fight. During the first year they fought hard, died or were wounded. The people at home began to economize. This spirit carried the armies far into France and Russia.

During the second year this enthusiasm has not been so great, but the determination of the people has not abated. They want peace at once, if they can obtain reasonable terms of peace. If they had to vote to go on until they can get these terms of the enemy, they would vote to go on.

Germany wants peace because Germany believes she has won the war. There are critics and grumblers dissatisfied with everything. Every belligerent has about as many as the other. The difference is that in England they grumble publicly, in Germany they cannot; and when people cannot criticize publicly, they do it twice as hard privately.

The people are individually personally interested in the war because every person has some relative at the front. The best indication of the public support of the war is the vote of the Reichstag in June of the new war credit of two billion marks. There was less opposition to it then than to the one before. The Socialists supported it for the fourth time and Socialist members of the Reichstag are in hourly touch with public sentiment.

Philip Scheidemann, a Socialist leader, is one of the best informed men in Germany on public sentiment. Scheidemann is in constant communication with the Imperial Chancellor. The Chancellor is received more often by the Kaiser than any other of the ministers. Scheidemann and his followers did not have confidence in the Chancellor and in the Kaiser there would be more evidences of it in the Reichstag. The Kaiser trusts the Chancellor's judgment absolutely. Scheidemann trusts the Chancellor's judgment and the public trusts the Socialist leader.

So the public still has confidence in the aims of the government as announced by von Bethmann-Hollweg in the Reichstag.

The people themselves deny that they are militaristic. They believe their army is their police force, for defence. To the people, this is a defense war. They are not fighting to hold Belgium, Poland or Serbia. They are against annexation. If the war lasts longer and they are further victorious, they may change, but

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.
Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain, undiluted coconut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.
Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.
You can get undiluted coconut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

there is no indication of it now. Whatever happens a great deal will depend on the attitude of the press. The Germans know there has been a strong military party and they know this party is today politically weaker than it ever has been.

At the beginning of the war there were three public leaders of the group of politicians called in America, "Imperialists." The Republican party in America, for instance, has been known as the Imperialistic party. Germany has a Republican party, The "Uncle Joe Cannon" of this party was Von Heydebrand, a conservative, annexationist member of the Reichstag. The "Big Navy Man" was Grand Admiral von Tirpitz. The "Big Army Man" was General von Moltke and General von Bernhardt. Heydebrand now has practically no influence outside his party and the other parties in the Reichstag outvote his party nearly two to one. Tirpitz has resigned and has been succeeded by a friend of the Chancellor, Moltke no longer is chief of staff. He has been succeeded by a man who is one of the Kaiser's best friends and a man who during the crisis with America worked for an adjustment to avoid a break. Bernhardt practically unknown to the German public, has been commander of an army in Posen since the beginning of the war. He has no influence in the government.

Popular Spirit in France

By HENRY WOOD
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Paris, July 4 (By Mail)—"There is not a single piece of gold to be found in my house today."

With eyes flashing pride and voice vibrating with enthusiasm these words were pronounced to me by Professor Alcide Betrine of No. 166 Boulevard Montparnasse. I picked him at random to tell me something of the spirit of the French people after two years of war.

Professor Betrine has grown gray in the public school service of France. He is entitled to retire on a pension but he won't do it while the war lasts. Professor Betrine is proud to be able to say:

"For the first time in my life and in generations in the history of my family, there is not a single gold piece to be found in my house today. I have turned it all into the Bank of France for the National Defense."

The boast of Professor Betrine today is the boast of practically every family in France. Within the last year the French voluntarily have exchanged for flimsy French banknotes over $325,000,000 gold. This stream of gold has been flowing for a year and is still flowing at from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000 a week. Such is the spirit of the French after two years of war.

"In every French family there are but two great passions—The only son and the little family hoard of gold."

It is the "little hoard of gold," on which every French household is built. Gold, in the popular French conception, is the one real, tangible thing in life on which anyone under any circumstances, can always count. It is the family's life, death, accident, health, marriage and disaster insurance in one.

Even if the "Boches" had actually reached Paris, the average Frenchman would have known he could still count on his gold to help him out.

This confidence in gold has reached in France, among the masses the status almost of a fetish. In thousands of families the gold has passed from generation to generation and been added to until it has taken on the additional sentimental value of a most highly prized heirloom. The average Frenchman figures his future and that of his family on his gold reserve.

Knowing all this, the government did not hesitate to ask for it. But it asked, it did not command. It knew that however much the hoard meant to its sons and daughters, "La Patrie" meant much more.

The average French family man is inclined to be rather hard headed, calculating money-seeking and saying, "Hard-headed thrift" might easily pass as the motto in French family life.

Early in the war there was published in France and elsewhere an article of presumed German origin explaining why the war with France would not last long.

The French common people, it asserted, would never permit the war to reach a point where it would effect either their regular sources of income or the amount of money they might already have saved. That was one of the things the Germans counted on for a quick short campaign in France before turning to smite Russia.

Germany was mistaken as in the Irish rebellion, Canadian secession and Mohammedan uprising in English colonies. The French population has placed patriotism before pocket books.

The greatest test that could be applied to the French people after they had parted with their sons was to ask them to part without a sou of recompense or premium, with their little family hoard of gold.

This is far from telling all the story of the possibilities of French thrift. It has enabled them to do far more than give the government gold. The French people have also subscribed some $3,000,000,000 to France's famous "Loan of Victory." French thrift—coupled necessarily with French spirit—has furnished France with the financial sinews for prosecuting the war. Parting with the gold was purely a matter of patriotic sentiment. Subscribing to the loan was a matter of careful investment.

Popular Spirit in Russia.

By William Philip Simms.
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Petrograd, July 4—(By Mail)—Twenty-four months of war has made a new country of Russia. The spirit of the people has changed. Confirmed pessimists admit that the war has worked a miracle.

Two years ago, when fighting began, Russia, like England and France, was torn by internal dissension. Her many races were at odds. A strike of serious proportions was on. Things looked dark for the Empire.

Russia today is more united than she ever has been. She is better organized. Every city and town in the land belongs to a Municipal Union to aid the nation. Every village and rural district has joined a second and similar organization. In all Russia, including Siberia, there is scarcely a single peasant not working for the army or some public good.

Up to August, 1914, of nearly 200 million Russian subjects, few had taken direct part in any public or national work. They are today nearly all doing their bit. This fact is lending a brand new tone to the Empire.

A war of gigantic proportions makes or breaks a participant. For Russia this one promises to be a blessing in disguise, according to notoriously conservative thinkers here, who believe they see in the wartime spirit of the public the commencement of unprecedented developments.

The Russian Duma is composed of Princes and Peasants, millowners and workmen, college professors and farmers, Jews, Gentiles, Poles, Armenians, Cossacks, Orthodox priests and free thinkers, so mixed a body with such varied interests, that people have said it never could do valuable work because it never could agree. Here is what happened in the Duma when the war broke out:

On August 8, a week after hostilities began, the two houses met at the Winter Palace of the Czar. The Emperor made a short speech saying:

"I am persuaded that all of you will be in your place to assist me to support the test, and that all beginning with myself, will do their duty. Great is the God of the Russian Fatherland."

A great cheer went up from Duma. One by one party leaders came forward and pledged themselves to work for the common good. Even Purishkevich, the implacable leader of the anti-semites, abandoned his principles. Today the Duma places the army's interests first.

"This is no time to squabble over reforms," Radzianko, the Duma's president replied when I asked him if any important reform bills were on the present session's program. And again, when I asked him why such short sessions and long recesses, he said:

"Duma members are mostly farmers. We can do more good for the army plowing than we can talking."

The Russian Duma is probably the most really representative body of the sort in the world and when its president said that, he was not merely sounding a phrase. It was evident that he was in earnest. Every Duma member with whom I talked said the same thing.

To take advantage of Russia's situation and use it to force through even cherished reforms appealed to Duma-ites as unfair. They feel that rows in the Duma would weaken the nation in her fight for life.

Citizen organizations for aiding Russia make war have made it possible for millions to take part in public work who until now never knew what such work was like. This is boosting the spirit of the country wonderfully.

Imagine every county of every state in the United States having a council of representative citizens—farmers, landowners, villagers. Now if every one of these organizations joined in a single body to help the Army do its work, such an organization would be similar to the All-Russian Zemstvo Union, only—there are nearly 200 million Russians, 80 per cent of whom are peasants and thus either directly or indirectly interested in Zemstvo work.

Imagine again every city council or board of aldermen in the United States forming one association to aid the army. This body would be like the All-Russian Municipality Union, which brings city dwellers in to public work.

Lastly, if American country folks and city folks should join hands by means of a joint board to control things and prevent overlappings, the result would be what the Russians have achieved in their Central Committee of members chosen by the All-Russian Zemstvo Union and by the All-Russian Municipality Union.

Popular Spirit in Italy

By JOHN H. HEARLEY
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Rome, July 4, (By Mail)—The manner in which the people of Italy celebrated the first anniversary of the war recently offers the best impression of Italy's spirit.

The event was everywhere celebrated with splendid shows of patriotic enthusiasm. The capital and other Italian cities made holidays to observe the occasion most fittingly.

The Roman Corso staged a shouting, singing and gesticulating procession of almost 200,000 people.

The populace, the military and governmental and civic officialdom took part. Flag-bearing women and children mixed with the men and boys in the long march from the Piazza del Popolo to the Piazza Venezia.

Broken veterans of 1870 in their tattered but treasured Garibaldian uniforms toiled along with the marchers.

Countless bands, all really musical, played the stirring martial music of Italy and her allies. The buildings, which aisled the route, were gay with the banners of England and France and the Italian tri-color.

The moment of the celebration made it the more remarkably significant. The Austrians had just begun their fierce offensive in the Trentino. They had even been successful in their initial movements. Their greater strength in cannon and the favoring topography of the battleground had been responsible.

Rome, like the rest of Italy, was full of wild and generally exaggerated rumors. The gossip, usually calculated to dishearten a people, was current.

Stories of enemy advances and alleged traitors in Italy's own camp, of alleged captures or annihilation of important generals and regiments were on many tongues. Nothing, however, could dispirit the courageous people.

"Temporary reverses," only hardened their determination to win and whipped their pride to greater efforts. Therefore they celebrated the anniversary by flinging into the face of the enemy not a decreasing, but an increasing enthusiasm for war.

Much credit is due the country's women of the people. They responded nobly to the general call for self-sacrifice. Girls replaced the male conductors on the street cars and the male sweepers of the streets.

In great measure the fields began to be tilled and the crops gathered by women. Other feminine substitutes, permitting able-bodied men to train for war, were employed.

Even society gave up its money and its pleasures.
